

Angela Morris-Winmill

Angela Morris-Winmill's artwork is a guilty pleasure of powerful visual representation. Her stunning 2D and 3D displays depict life, death, humanity and strength through the use of organic matter, vibrant colour and captivating special effects.

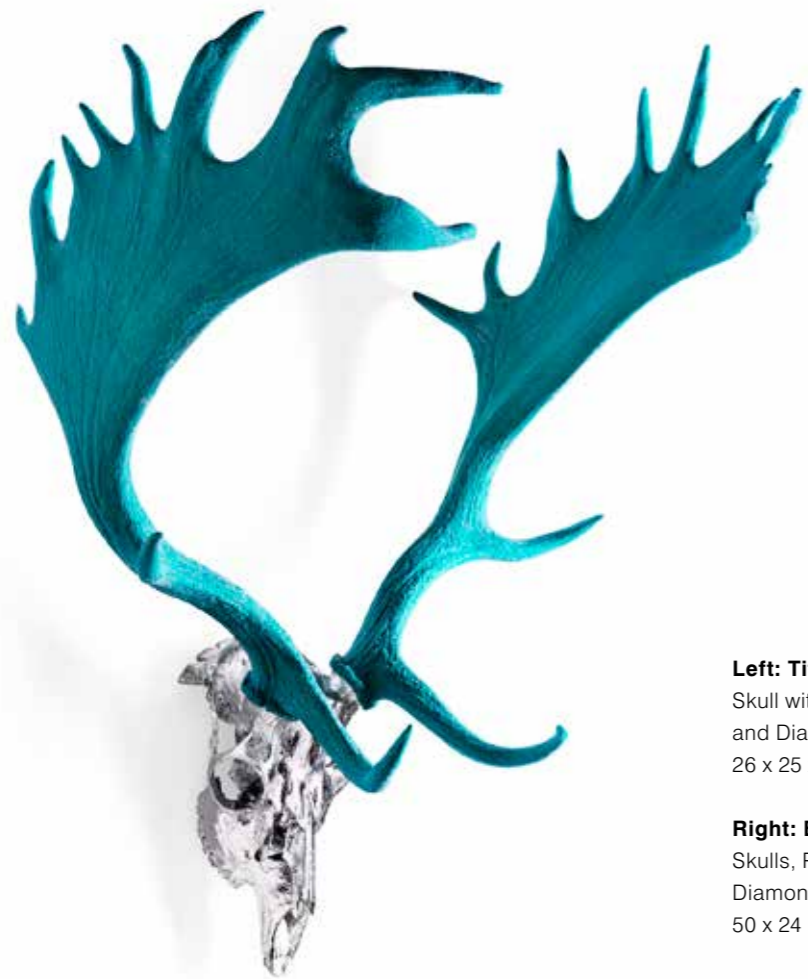

Heavily influenced by her Australian outback upbringing and teachings from her father during family expeditions into 'the bush', Angela places a tremendous value on life and respects the animals that provide food for us. As such, they feature heavily within her artwork.

Graduating from The University of Sydney at age 21, Angela made her way to the UK and forged an incredibly successful Fashion Design career in London and across Europe. Often attracting impressive media attention for her work, this grounding (coupled with her strong eye for colour and detail) allowed her later transition to full time fine artist to be a natural and seamless process. She now exhibits internationally and boasts collectors all around the globe.
